

The objective of ISWA Summer Schools is to provide advanced knowledge in the field of waste management to an international audience of existing and emerging solid waste experts.

At the joint ISWA and University of Malaya (UM) Summer School in Kuala Lumpur, the students will have the opportunity to gain knowledge on the particular challenges of solid waste management in developing economies. Students will learn to understand landfill siting, design and construction, operation, landfill leachate, landfill gas and environmental risk assessment related to the landfill. Practical aspects of calculating global warming potential from landfill gas will be included.
